TULALIP HOSPITALITY

Our approach to hospitality can be summed up by a simple gesture: We raise our hands to you. It's the traditional Tulalip greeting, a warm expression of welcome and friendship, harmony and hospitality. You'll see this gesture depicted by one of the intricately carved house posts that greet you upon your arrival. It's a greeting that says you are our guest, you are under our roof, you are part of our family. And we will do everything possible to ensure your stay with us is as comfortable and as enjoyable as possible. Welcome!

The Meaning of Tulalip

In 1855, with the signing of the Point Elliott Treaty, the Snohomish, Snoqualmie, Skykomish and other Pacific Northwest allied tribes settled what is now the Tulalip Reservation. In the Lushootseed Salish language, the word for Tulalip is dxwlilap, which means "small-mouthed bay," a description of the body of water on the western boundary of our home.

THE TULALIP EXPERIENCE

It may be the awe-inspiring 25-foot house posts—hand-carved from 1,000-year-old red cedar—that greet you upon arrival. Or seeing world-class entertainment under the stars. Perhaps it will be guest rooms so spacious they defy expectation. Or having brand name designer outlets a short stroll away. It could be the spa serenity or casino excitement. Or the award-winning dining, bridal amenities, meeting facilities or any one of hundreds of other incredible experiences. But make no mistake. Tulalip Resort will cause one word to reside on your lips countless times during your stay:

Wow!

TULALIP COMFORT

Part of Tulalip hospitality is making you feel right at home. Perhaps we've done our job too well. After all, our guests never want to leave. And no wonder. Our 370 guest rooms and suites are luxuriously spacious, a perfect balance of contemporary style and traditional Northwest Coast Salish artwork and textures. With king-sized beds and 47-inch flat screen HDTVs, bathrooms with Italian tile and granite counter tops, it's easy to get lost in all this comfort. Still, we encourage guests to explore the rest of the Resort!

Tulalip Luxury

From the first moment a guest experiences one of our spacious suites, one thought immediately comes to mind: This is where luxury comes to stay. Our 18 Orca Suites balance elegance with art, style with comfort.
